Highways

sylvia highways.

"There are many hazardous locations along the state's highway network which we are endeavoring to correct," the secretary said.

This will include the elimination of dangerous intersections, bad curves, bad grades, narrow roads and bridges no longer able to adequately handle the existing traffic load, he said.

"Three-lane highways," Bartlett continued, "are deemed a hazard by the highway department." These highways will either be widened into four-lane roadways or marked in such a manner as to cut down accident potential, he said.

"Railroad crossings will either be eliminated, by taking the highway over the tracks, or made safer by erecting signals and gates."

Bartlett said the highway department is constantly searching for surface materials which provide better traction for motorists. "We have a responsibility to assure sufficient traction on highways and the motorist, likewise, has a responsibility to make sure his tires are in good shape," he said.

"Better highways mean a better safety record for Pennsylvania," he remarked.

To get these better highways, however, requires funds to implement the program. "I hope the legislature will enact the bills to increase vehicular registration fees." The funds raised through these measures could be earmarked for highway construction, he said.

There are two main ingredients to a good highway system . . . adequate financing and cooperation from the public concerning highway safety, Bartlett concluded.

Other speakers included William F. Troxell, district engineer, who opened the session and outlined its purpose.

"This pilot program," he said, "is to help the news media to become acquainted with the three phases of the department . . . design (pre-construction), construction, and operations (maintenance)."

S. A. Faulkner, assistant district engineer in charge of operations, explained the functions of his department, breaking it down into six main headings. They are: Accident review, roadside development, municipal services, occupancy permit department, traffic and highway maintenance.

Faulkner said it cost $18,113,000 to maintain the district's highways last year. This figure includes $5,234,000 for snow removal, he said.

R. T. Fox, assistant district engineer in charge of construction, said it's his department's responsibility to advertise for bids and award contracts to the lowest responsible bidder.

It is likewise the department's responsibility to check all materials used on the project and to have inspectors on the job until completion, Fox said.

He said $45-million was paid to contractors during fiscal year 1967-68.

The session ended with a visit to the construction site of the bridge carrying Route 1-79 over the Conestoga Marsh.

NOTABLE GUESTS

OFFICERS AND DELEGATES

During the morning session of the day-long meeting new officers and delegates to the state convention were elected. The new officers are seated left to right, Carl Holcomb, second vice president, Eldred Township; James Stockill, president, Conewango Township; and June Marsh, secretary, Farmington Township. Delegates elected are Ralph Frye, standing left, Watson Township; and Norman Spicer, alternate delegate, Sheffield Township. One officer, William Barrett, first vice president, Pine Grove Township; and one alternate delegate, Carl Johnson, Sugar Grove Township, were not present. (Photo by Knight)

Township Officials Conduct 57th Annual Convention Here

Supervisors, secretaries, auditors, tax collectors and assessors, representing 21 townships in Warren County conducted their 57th annual convention of township officials Monday at Jackson Valley Country Club.

Some 128 township officials were present for the daylong meeting which got underway at 10 a.m.

Milton W. DeLancey, secretary, State Association of Township Supervisors, Harrisburg, Pa., was the keynote speaker at the program, with several state and local officials also taking part in a wide range of discussions concerning township government.

May Cost

British Millions

LONDON (AP) — The biggest anti-Vietnam demonstration ever staged in Britain was light in casualties and damage but still cost the taxpayers more than a million dollars, London police estimated Monday.

Magistrates handed out jail sentences of up to three months to five of the 43 arrested in Sunday's massive protest. Others were fined or put on probation for a year or two.

Only one of the nine policemen injured in the wild affray before the American Embassy in Grosvenor Square remained in a hospital. He was kicked in the face.

The monthly Master Point game will be played next Monday, November 4.

Tax Payment Due

Borough residents who pay their 1968 real estate taxes on the installment plan are reminded the second payment is due Monday, Nov. 4. A notice in Monday's Times-Mirror and Observer incorrectly gave the due date as Nov. 14.

The office of the borough tax collector will be open until noon Saturday.

Boundary Change article on annexation were among several discussed by DeLancey. During the afternoon session DeLancey opened a "question and answer period" which included a broad range of discussion concerning township government problems.

DeLancey also discussed six new amendments and resolutions of the State Association of Township Supervisors. These included amendments to provide payment of $6 per meeting and reimbursement of necessary expenses for members of planning and zoning commissions and raising the compensation paid county association secretaries.

Other speakers on the program included several state and local officials. Among the many speakers were, State Senator, Richard C. Frame; Congressman Albert W. Johnson; Rep. William W. Allen; District Attorney, Samuel Bonavita; County Commissioner, Dr. David K. Rice; Louis C. Kisseleff, traffic engineer, Pennsylvania Dept. of Highways; Ralph D. Osborn, district supervisor, Pennsylvania Dept. of Highways; Lester Sheldon, assistant district supervisor, Pennsylvania Dept. of Highways; Bernard Wingert, county agent, Penn State Cooperative Extension Service; and Blain Schlosser, Penn State Cooperative Extension Service.

Other formal business completed during the six hour long meeting included the election of officers, and delegates to the state convention to be held in Pittsburgh in April, 1969.

Warren firemen were called to 338 Hickory st. about 11 p.m., Monday when papers, piled on a lighted furnace, caught fire. The building, owned by the borough, is scheduled to be demolished.

Firemen said the floor of the furnace room was burned through in several places.

Recruited largely from the ranks of skilled construction workers, the first Seabees of World War II averaged 33 years old. Marines on Guadalcanal quipped, "Never hit a Seabee, he might be some Marine's father."

Jamestown Council Asks Federal Aid for Project

JAMESTOWN — Jamestown City Council took another step Monday night to bring the low income housing project for Senior Citizens in the Hotel Jamestown closer to reality. Council, without discussion, passed a resolution asking the federal government to reserve $21,000, which the city will pay to help get the project under way. When the project is completed, the $21,000 will be returned to the city.

Two weeks ago, Council adopted a resolution agreeing to turn 251 hotel rooms into 104 apartments for elderly residents with low income. Local developer, Dr. Milton Battier, said the project would be completed without cost to the city. In other business, a resolution authorizing the Board of Trustees at Jamestown Community College to hire an architect for a new $1,000,000 classroom building was withdrawn. William R. Blood, city corporation counsel, said legally the city should hire the architect upon the recommendation of the college's trustees. The JCC Board plans to interview architects on Nov. 12, and hopefully make its recommendation to Council that same night.

Completion of the new classroom building would permit the college to abandon the old East Jamestown school on East Second st. Cost of the new building would be financed by state and federal funds. The City would not be asked for any financial support.

TOM TOM

By Tom Warco

There was a cute story told by a speaker at a recent testimonial affair — about the two French poolies meeting on the street. One said: "My name is Fil, spelled FI-FL." The other said her name was Mimi, spelled MI-ML. Along came a large dog of no particular breed who announced his name to be Fido, spelled FIDYEU.

In Monday's obituary column which published the death of Francis F. Arnold, 70, of 37 Curtis st., Columbus, it was announced that following cremation a memorial service would be held at 8 p.m., today (Tuesday) at Lutz-Vermilyea Funeral Home, with the Rev. William Turner of Lily Dale Spiritualist Church, officiating. Mr. Turner is affiliated with the Church of Psychic Science, Buffalo, N.Y.

An anonymous note received by the county commissioners requested the name of Marvin Griffin, listed as vice presidential running mate of George Wallace be removed from the ballot and that of Curtis LeMay added. Griffin, who was running at the time ballots were to be printed, is listed on all Pennsylvania ballots, which are made up on the state level, and nothing can be done locally to alter the situation.

Surplus food will be distributed to all Sugar Grove area recipients Friday, Nov. 1, from the fire hall. Hours are noon until 3 p.m. Please bring own containers.

It is noted that a former Pennsylvania State Police officer and now an Erie County Commissioner, Leo P. Weir, has been named to the legislative committee of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Commissioners by President Russell J. Weston, McKean County. Weir at one time was stationed in Warren.

Shortly after 10 a.m. Friday, barricades were removed from the two mile plus section of new concrete highway on Route 66 at Pigeon which forced a detour via Sheffield or Barnes since spring. Plagued by malicious damage, the contractor had kept the road barricaded until the project was inspected and accepted. Tionesta-based state police said more than 30 persons had been arrested for violations of the posted highway. Detour involved several miles travel between Kane south to Marienville.

A three-car pileup on Route 8 just south of Reno Friday night snarled traffic for about an hour. Slippery conditions were blamed. Included among those treated and released at Franklin Hospital were Leland Kiblinger, 59, operator of one of the cars, and his wife, Bertha Maie, 59, both of RD 2, Tidoute. State police said the crash occurred when the Kiblinger car crashed into the rear of a car driven by John Boughner, 18, Reno, stopped to make a left turn. The impact caused the Kiblinger vehicle to careen across the highway where it struck the third car. Damage was high.

We regret that incorrect information was given regarding the open house held at the YMCA Sunday honoring Mr. and Mrs. Julius Thorn. Mrs. Thorn is a retiring teacher from Warren Area High School and was presented with a brooch by Mrs. Howard Andersen on behalf of the high school faculty — contrary to the caption in Monday's paper.

Political Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Presidential candidates Richard M. Nixon and George C. Wallace both criticized Monday recent polls which have shown Hubert H. Humphrey pulling ahead as the campaign draws to a close.

Campaigning in Albany, N.Y., Republican Nixon said the public opinion polls failed to measure the intensity of his workers and supporters — "the zeal of our troops."

"Whatever Gallup shows as his final figure and whatever Harris shows as his final figure, I predict that I will run three per cent better than Gallup and five per cent better than Harris," Nixon said.

On a flight from Hannibal, Mo., to Beaumont, Tex., Wallace called the two major polls, which showed his third party campaign losing strength, a "new comic strip."

The polls, he said, were "a deliberate and desperate attempt on the part of the other two parties to deceive the American people and to interfere with their right to cast their vote in accordance with their true thoughts and convictions."

Meanwhile, Humphrey, the Democrat, campaigned in Canton, Akron, and Cleveland, Ohio, attacking Nixon's economic and foreign policy programs.

In a speech prepared for a dinner in Cleveland, Humphrey called Nixon's defense program, "a futile policy of escalation."

He added that the Eisenhower-Nixon administration "plunged this country into three job-killing, profit-killing recessions."

Both Nixon's campaign manager and his running mate, Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew issued statements denying charges in a New York Times editorial that accused Agnew of conflicts of interest. The editorial was published Saturday and reprinted Tuesday.

Experts Predict Computers Will Teach Basic Skills

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Education experts predicted Monday that computers soon will teach such basic skills as reading and mathematics in one-tenth the time and at half the cost now required. Schools as we know them will disappear, they said.

The forecasts were made in a symposium on computer-assisted education at a meeting of the National Academy of Science at the California Institute of Technology.

Dr. Ralph W. Gerard, dean of the graduate division of the University of California at Irvine, said "The impact of computers on education will be more important than was the development of printing."

With today's equipment, he said, 10,000 students could be taught easily through less than 700 computerized television consoles. He added that the cost of such a system would be only half that of using human teachers at the ratio of one for 15 students.

Dr. James Bonner of Caltech predicted that basic studies eventually will be taught in one-tenth the time needed today. Computers will monitor each student's progress minute by minute, correcting mistakes immediately — before they become fixed in the child's mind, he said.

The teacher of the future, the experts agreed, will be a console which flashes right or wrong to each answer as it is given. Since a computer can react in a thousandth of a second it could teach 1,000 students at once through 1,000 consoles.

The end of schools as large assemblies of students was forecast by Dr. John I. Goodlad, dean of the graduate school of education of the University of California at Los Angeles. "It no longer becomes necessary to house all of the students of a given age all of the time in something we know as a classroom building," he said. "There is no need for an egg crate type of school building with approximately 30 students and a teacher housed in each slot of the crate."

"We see classroom space being drastically reduced because there is no need to have all the students there at the same time and there is no need to open the building for only a few hours each day. It should and will be made available to students 24 hours a day, just as computers for statistical purposes are now available 24 hours a day for college students."

He forecast widespread use of computers in elementary schools in the 1980s.

Meadville Man Gets 6-12 Years In Shooting Death

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A Meadville man was sentenced Monday to six to 12 years in prison in the 1963 shooting death of an Erie man.

Judge Lindley McClelland sentenced William Schutz, 59, after Schutz was declared capable of standing trial. Schutz had been in the Farview State Hospital.

Schutz was charged in the death of Robert Fox, 44, of Erie. Police said the shooting followed a quarrel between Schutz and his wife in a rural area near Edinboro. He pleaded guilty.

Police said Schutz' wife flagged down a truck, and Schutz shot at the truck, killing Fox, the driver, and injuring a passenger.

4-H Achievement Night Is Highlight of Year

By FRANKLIN R. HOFF

Annual Warren County Rotary 4-H Achievement Night Oct. 26 at North Warren Community House was marked by suspense until the awards for Outstanding 4-H Boy and Girl of Warren County, the Home Economics and Dairy trophies and the National 4-H award winners were announced.

4-H members, leaders and Rotarians filled the North Warren Community center, and following the awards ceremonies enjoyed a social evening, including square dancing.

Award winners were selected from 314 members of 26 Warren County 4-H Clubs, who are guided by 54 adult leaders. There are 125 boys and 189 girls in Warren County 4-H clubs. Adult leaders include 28 men and 26 women. There are 38 Teen Leaders.

Outstanding 4-H Girl for 1968 is Mary Anne Wilcox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wilcox of Russell. Outstanding 4-H Boy for 1968 is Leslie Dodd Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dodd, Corry. Rotarian Dr. David Rice presented the two awards.

Mary Anne Wilcox was also the winner of the Home Economics trophy.

Gerry Blystone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Blystone, of Pittsfield, is the winner of the annual 4-H agriculture trophy.

The trophies were presented by Everett Borg, president, Warren Rotary Club.

National 4-H award winners were announced, including: Lona Dyke, Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dyke, Russell, who received the Health award, sponsored by Eli Lilly and Company. This award was presented by Rotarian Jerry Fisher.

Linda Perschke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Perschke of Warren, who received the food preservation award, sponsored by Kerr Glass Mfg. Corp., presented by Mrs. Arthur Lydell.

Mike D. Kuzma, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kuzma, Columbus and Leslie Dodd Jr., were presented with the dairy award by Rotarian Dan Walters. The award is sponsored by the Oliver Corporation, Chicago.

Annette Lauffenburger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lauffenburger, Warren, received the Home Economics Consumer Education award, sponsored by Montgomery Ward from Rotarian Dr. Ward M. Sharp.

The leadership award went to Mary Anne Wilcox. Presentation was made by Rotarian Arthur Lydell. The award was sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

The Dress Revue national 4-H awards, sponsored by Simplicity Pattern Co. Inc., were presented by Mrs. Ward Sharp to: Beth Lindell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lindell, Russell; Diane Ludwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Ludwick, Sugar Grove; Barbara Perschke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Perschke, Warren; Marcia Wilcox and Mary Anne Wilcox, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wilcox, Russell; and Rose Wilcox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Wilcox, Sugar Grove.

National 4-H Clothing awards were presented by Mrs. David Rice to: Marcia Wilcox, Beth Lindell and Diane Ludwick.

Mrs. F. E. Wilcox, RD 2, Russell, was awarded the Pearl Clover emblem, in recognition for five years of outstanding 4-H activities.

Export Surplus $282 Million Over Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $282.2 million surplus of exports over imports in September raised the morale of government scorekeepers — even though they concede it was too little and too late to keep 1968 from being a relatively poor year in foreign trade.

"The September surplus was substantially above the $89 million August surplus," William H. Chartener, assistant secretary of commerce, said Monday as he disclosed the figures, "and the largest since last November."

Exports totaled $3,246 billion on a seasonally adjusted basis in September and imports $2,964 billion. It was the first time exports ever exceeded $3 billion in a single month.

If the remaining three months are on a par with September, Chartener said, the total 1968 surplus may reach $1.5 billion.

Even though such a surplus would be the lowest since 1959 it would at least be an improvement over the $1 billion or less indicated until September came along to pull up the average.

The tall spinning surpluses of 1968 have been a major source of disappointment to the administration. Exports last year topped imports by $4.1 billion and President Johnson was shooting for a 1968 surplus of $4.6 billion or higher.

An unchecked rise in imports — they've set records in six of the months so far — has shattered that hope.

work as a 4-H leader. Mrs. Wilcox has served as a leader in the Lander 4-H clubs, including clothing and 4-H Party-time clubs. This year seven members of her club competed in the 1968 county Dress Revue contest, and four were selected to attend the district Dress Revue contest. All members of her club this year competed at roundup. Mrs. Wilcox is an active member of the Lander Methodist Church. Her four children have been enthusiastic 4-H club members, and her husband is president of the Warren County 4-H Development Fund.

The "I Dare You" award for 1968, sponsored by the Danforth Foundation, was presented by Alfred Akins, president, Warren County Extension Service executive committee, to Mary Anne Wilcox and Ken Hanson, RD 2, Cider Mill Hill, Russell.

The award includes a copy to each winner of a book: "I Dare You!" written by William H. Danforth, founder and former chairman of the board of the Ralston - Purina Company, St. Louis, and national youth leader. The book emphasizes the four-fold development: Think Tall, Stand Tall, Smile Tall and Live Tall, and challenges leadership, and encourages young people to lead creative, purposeful lives. It is a recognition of leadership achievement.

In presenting the Rotary 4-H Agricultural and Home Economics trophies, Warren Rotary president Everett Borg explained they are awarded on a basis of project work and participation in club and county-wide 4-H activities.

Goldberg Sees End of War In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said Monday he is "profoundly convinced we are in the last stages of the war in Vietnam."

He told a luncheon meeting of the Woman's National Democratic Club that he is convinced that the United States is moving toward peace in Southeast Asia but this does not mean that there are not difficulties ahead.

He said that he had learned during his years at the United Nations that the Communists have their own conceptions of the world and that it will not be easy to reach a settlement.

Goldberg disclaimed any official information but in discussing the future of U.S. foreign policy, he said that, "We wait expectantly for negotiations in Paris to proceed from the preliminary to the substantive stage of peace negotiations."

Leslie Dodd Jr., selected as Outstanding Warren Co. 4-H Boy of 1968, 17 years old, is a member of the Western 4-H Dairy Club. He served as Teen Leader of the club, and encouraged and helped younger dairy club members with their projects. He has completed 8 years in 4-H. Currently a senior in Corry Area High School, Leslie has completed 4-H projects in Electric, tractor, in addition to 10 projects in Dairy. He attended Pennsylvania 4-H Capital Days in Harrisburg, where he observed how State Government operates. He is an all-around responsible 4-H member.

Gerry Blystone, winner of the annual Rotary 4-H Agriculture trophy, has completed three years in 4-H, with projects in dairy, tractor and electric. He has been a Teen Leader in his club, helping the adult leader by working with younger members. Gerry Blystone has attended Pennsylvania 4-H Congress, and was a contestant in the State 4-H Days with a demonstration in Dairy. He assisted with this year's District Dairy Show. He also won the Intermediate trophy for showmanship in both the County and District Dairy Shows.

The Warren County Outstanding 4-H Boy and Girl are also nominated for competition on the state level. They are eligible for honors to represent Pennsylvania at the National 4-H Congress; to election to Club 30-30 4-H leadership group at the Pennsylvania 4-H Congress; and for various out-of-state trips such as West Virginia 4-H Congress, Camp Miniwaka, a Michigan State Leadership camp and others.

N.F.L., South Vietnamese Compete on Cocktail Circuit

(c) N.Y. Times News Service PARIS—The National Liberation Front, in its first public initiative here, has challenged the South Vietnamese government mission to an open competition on the diplomatic cocktail circuit.

The Front's new information bureau has scheduled a reception at one of the most expensive, most splashy, luxury hotels of Paris on Wednesday—at exactly the same hour that the South Vietnamese consulate general is holding its National Day reception.

Each is aware of the other's plans. Neither is making a change. Both are obviously alert to the political overtones, especially at this critical moment when secret bargaining between the United States and North Vietnam is concerned with the roles of both groups in future negotiations. Both are providing their guests with the best that Paris has to offer.

Pham Dang Lam, the South Vietnamese consul general and chief observer to the Vietnam talks, has chosen the Hotel Meurice on the Rue De Rivoli in a chic Right-Bank hotel district not far from the Louvre. The Meurice is a sedate, quiet, luxury hotel with a long tradition and kind of tone that appeals to royalty.

Pham Van Ba, the director of the Front's new information office, has chosen the George V, just off the Champs Elysees. The George V is a swank, modern hotel, popular with millionaires, Arab oil sheiks and many Americans. If anything it is a shade more expensive than the Meurice.

"I guess they have more money than we do," joked one South Vietnamese official.

The government's invitations came in first—the middle of last week. Those from the Front came in over the weekend. The hours are identical—6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, only a few hours after American and North Vietnamese negotiators finish their weekly sessions.

Monday night a Front official acknowledged that he "had heard" that there was a conflict. But he suggested that "perhaps it's just an accident." He maintained that the Front had made its plans "a long time ago—at least a week ago."

Ba arrived on Oct. 11 to open the Front's information office. The Front's reception, the invitation says, is to celebrate "the taking up of his duties."

The bureau has not yet opened.

The government's reception is in honor of South Vietnamese National Day commemating the overthrow of the late Ngo Dinh Diem on Nov. 1, 1963. The reception was moved ahead two days, South Vietnamese officials explained, because Nov. 1 is a local holiday and many people leave town for the weekend.

Only in the last few days have Front officials been taking part in public functions, presumably to bolster Hanoi's position that the N.L.F., the political arm of the Viet Cong, is entitled to a full-fledged role in the next stage of negotiations.

This has become a critical issue in the secret bargaining between Hanoi and Washington. The South Vietnamese government has been pressing the U.S. to insure that Front officials will be admitted to the talks only as part of the North Vietnamese delegation. Saigon refuses to accept the Front as a separate entity, and has feared that Washington has given Hanoi language that is too vague on this point. The U.S. has proposed a halt in bombing North Vietnam linked to acceptance of South Vietnamese representatives in the next phase of talks.

Recreation Potential

For the past few years the Allegheny National Forest has been grossing more than a million dollars annually from timber sales. As a result, townships where federal lands are located have been receiving 25 per cent of this amount in lieu of taxes. The allocation this year amounted to $262,554.48, or slightly better than 50 cents per acre to the involved townships in Forest, Elk, McKean and Warren counties.

Considering the fact that private lands of similar use and value return no more than half this amount in taxes, the return on federal lands is excellent. Yet there is reason to wonder if the emphasis being placed on growing timber by the local staff isn't a bit out of line with the true potential of the Allegheny National Forest.

It's a certain fact that we are not in the "big money" class when compared with other states where national forests are located. While we can't hope for $22.5 million payments such as Oregon received this year from its 15,465,016 acres of federal land, we should expect to compare with states where federal holdings are about equal if we are going to use the return on timber sales as a yardstick for measuring the value of federal lands to the local economy.

Examples are Louisiana and South Carolina, both with about the same number of acres in national forests as we have here in Pennsylvania. In both of these states the in lieu of taxes payments amounted to better than 90 cents per acre. So while the returns from the ANF are the greatest in the northeastern states, they are still below par on a national scale.

But there's more than one side to the coin. If one checks a chart showing the use of recreational resources on all of the national forests prepared in 1964 the Allegheny National Forest ranks among the best on an acre-to-acre use basis. New Hampshire topped the field then, but since the completion of the Kinzua Dam the local forest could be challenging their leadership.

So why not more emphasis on our recreational potential? Not directed so much to the costly development of showy complexes, but more to the increased use of our existing assets such as those that would appeal to the fisherman, hunter, boater, bird watcher, hiker, trail rider, and nature lover. We have the outdoor environment the urban dweller is seeking, both in quantity and quality. And we feel the necessary accommodations will follow.

A "tourist" dollar is equal to a "timber" dollar so far as the local economy is concerned--and the nice part of it is that we could be having both.

ART BUCHWALD

Peace Scare No. 30

WASHINGTON — Whenever we have a peace scare in the United States we have been experiencing for the past few weeks, I search out my dear friend, Gen. Hurler Dismay, formerly of the Air Force Bomber Command, who knows more about war than any living authority.

"Is peace inevitable?" I asked Gen. Dismay, who had just returned from a three-day trip to Vietnam.

"Not necessarily. In the Atomic Age we must always live with the threat of peace, but I think it can be avoided."

"But how?"

"First by not making any overtures to the enemy that might provoke them into thinking that we want peace, and second by ignoring any peace feelers from the other side, no matter how promising they are. When peace threatens, you must use all the military know-how you have to prevent it from becoming a reality."

"But how can you do this, General?"

"Quite simple. If the enemy lets up on the fighting, you announce they are losing the war and it is the best time to go in and clean them out once and for all. If the enemy continues fighting, you announce that the enemy has no intention of seeking peace and they must be beaten with every weapon at your disposal. The worst thing to show during a peace scare is any sign of weakness."

"What, in your opinion, is the best way to avoid all-out peace?"

"By stepping up the bombing. The more you bomb, the less chance you have of someone making a mistake that could lead to peace negotiations."

"One of the problems you have to deal with when you fight a war is the 'civilian-non-industrial complex,' which seems intent on provoking peace for its own selfish gains. If we let it up to the complex, there would be some kind of peace every 10 years."

"Does the President of the United States realize this?"

"At the beginning the President had his guard up against the peace-mongers, but as time went on he was under so much pressure from special interest groups who have more to gain from peace than war that he started giving in, against the best advice of the military. During the first four years in Vietnam, there was never any talk of peace. We prevailed because we had persuaded the President that we could win the war without peace. But then the President got cold feet and initiated the Paris peace talks, which we feel could eventually lead to a peaceful confrontation between the two sides. If both sides refused to back down, and wanted to wage peace, then I wouldn't even want to imagine the consequences."

"What can the average citizen do to avoid a peaceful settlement in Vietnam?"

"He can demand the continuation of the bombing, the invasion of North Vietnam, the pursuit of the enemy into Laos and Cambodia and de-escalation of the war so we can win it once and for all."

"But will anybody listen?" I asked.

"Maybe not at first. If enough people raise their voices against the peace, they will have to do something about it."

"But every time I raise my voice against peace in Vietnam, I'm called a Hawk," I cried.

"This is a question of conscience, and if you really believe in war as a way of settling things, you have to expect to be ridiculed and called names. History is on your side. In the age of sophisticated weaponry and nuclear hardware, peace can no longer be considered a feasible way of solving our problems."

"You're given me great strength, General," I said.

He put his hand on my shoulder. "Don't despair. Even if peace seems inevitable, somehow we'll muddle through."

Campaign Notes

The heat is on. And, as one would expect, it is mostly on Richard Nixon. Not because he is the front-runner, but because he is the conservative alternative.

Arthur Schlesinger Jr. has weighed in with an endorsement of Hubert Humphrey. One would think that, after a while, Mr. Schlesinger's endorsements would depreciate, so numerous are they becoming. First he was for Senator McCarthy. But then when Senator Kennedy announced, Mr. Schlesinger simply abandoned McCarthy in favor of the Jacobite Restoration. Then when tragedy struck Kennedy down, Schlesinger went not back home to McCarthy as one would have supposed, but to Senator McGovern.

During that period Mr. Schlesinger made a number of cracks about Mr. Humphrey's disqualifications, based on his support of the Vietnam War, but now he says that "people change their minds," and concerning no one else is it more eagerly hoped he will continue to change his mind. Mr. Humphrey, says Mr. Schlesinger, has personally reassured him that if he is elected, he will drastically alter our Vietnam position.

And anyway, said Mr. Schlesinger the historian, Mr. Nixon's campaign is "an intellectual and moral disgrace, to such a point that no one knows what he would do about anything as president." Therefore, Mr. Schlesinger concludes, "he cannot make a good president of the United States." Students of logic will recognize the enthymematic problem here. If it isn't known what Mr. Nixon will do as president, how is it predictable that he will make a poor president?

Suppose he named Arthur Schlesinger as Secretary of State, John Kenneth Galbraith as Secretary of Commerce, and Benjamin Spock as Secretary of Defense? Wouldn't he make a marvelous president then? And how does Mr. Schlesinger know that that isn't exactly what old Tricky Dick has in mind, if Mr. Schlesinger says that he doesn't in fact know just what he does have in mind?

And we hear from James Reston, the Duns Scotus of the world of journalism. He goes through an entire column criticizing Richard Nixon for declining to debate with Humphrey, drawing verbose moral conclusions concerning the bad character of Mr. Nixon -- without once mentioning, not even in the late city editions, that Mr. Hubert Humphrey was in the forefront of the movement four years ago to prevent a debate between Barry Goldwater and Lyndon Johnson.

Now it is one thing to point out, simply, that Mr. Nixon's switched position on debates did not embellish his prestige, but it is altogether something else to draw from that decision, which was obviously a tactical decision, dark invidious inferences concerning his character. Unless he had been willing to draw similar decisions concerning Mr. Humphrey, on account of his own switcheroo. Never mind, the partisans are riding their horses nowadays at full gallop, and reason is a detour.

And while we are in search of political hygiene, how about the extraordinary exemptions that are being granted to Senator Jacob Javits? The polls in New York State show that Mr. Nixon is leading by a bare 2 per cent. Mr. Javits conspired two months ago to prevent the Conservative Party from endorsing Mr. Nixon, with the altogether possible result that Mr. Nixon will for that reason alone lose the state of New York and possibly the national election. Mr. Javits took the position, as one would expect, as a matter of principle -- his principled opposition to third parties. However, that principle did not prevent him from accepting the designation of the Liberal Party, and in the past few days, huge newspaper ads have been appearing urging the voters to go for Humphrey and Javits.

MASON DENISON

Nixon On Penna.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Columnist Mason Denison whose daily column is syndicated in more than 50 newspapers throughout the State has asked both Democratic Presidential Candidate Hubert H. Humphrey and Republican Presidential Candidate Richard M. Nixon to serve as "guest columnists", to express their personal thoughts on the theme: "Why Pennsylvania should go Democratic (or Republican) and Pennsylvania's importance in the 1968 Presidential Election.")

HARRISBURG — I want to thank Syndicated Columnist Mason Denison for this opportunity to speak directly to his many readers in Pennsylvania.

As you may know I have a personal interest in Pennsylvania, where my father last farmed and where my younger brother, Ed, was schooled.

Politically Pennsylvania is one of the big swing states which hold a key to the election. We call these final days of the campaign "operation extra effort." This is our way of saying we are trying to finish the race with the speed, endurance and success of the Apollo Astronauts' mission.

We have a great political team in Pennsylvania with such leaders as Gov. Raymond Shafer, Sen. Hugh Scott, and your next U. S. Senator Dick Schweiker and former Gov. William Scranton who has been a great help on international affairs.

With this team's efforts and our personal campaigning in this pivotal State, I find we are ahead.

I also think that Pennsylvania is a State where we have an excellent opportunity not only to gain presidential votes but to add to the Republican team by electing more GOP Congressmen.

I mention the team because as I criss-cross the country I find that there is a growing demand for national unity.

I believe that only Republican leadership has an opportunity to unify the country in the near future. The Democrats cannot unify their own party even in Pennsylvania and of course, George Wallace has thrived on disunity. The next eight years will be fateful years for the nation. We must move forward.

We cannot afford to be tied to the errors of the past, nor bound to the old ways of the administration Hubert Humphrey serves.

Lets look briefly at the way I would like to lead against crime. Pennsylvania can be proud that it has the nation's 12th lowest crime rate. Yet with a national crime rate that has gone up nine times as fast as population in the last four years, no one can be complacent.

If we are going to win this insidious battle we need new tools and a will to fight with all the leadership we can marshal.

Take one example--narcotics. The use of narcotics has increased rapidly among our young people with organized crime feeding on the profits. A high percentage of all street crime, mugging and armed robbery is committed by narcotics addicts in a desperate search for quick money to feed their habit.

But what has the administration done? It refused to support legislation for wire tap authority against organized crime, an essential tool. The Attorney General says organized crime is a "tiny part" of the crime picture. If I am elected in November the war on crime in America will get the kind of federal attention, resources and priority it has not gotten for the last four years.

We would establish a Cabinet-level council to coordinate federal policy on the control and prevention of crime. We would get through a National Academy of Law Enforcement, and we would establish a National Coordinating Center to marshal the efforts of independent groups and institutions.

The war on crime is, of course, only one of the issues I hope the voters of Pennsylvania will consider in these final pre-election days.

I have great faith in America, a faith that has been reinforced in this campaign. I have talked about the issues with the workers in the factories, the farmers, mothers, and secretaries -- a cross section of this nation. I have listened to their ideas and given them mine. I know these people want to move ahead with America. They want leadership and they want to be a part of the dynamic program to solve the problems of the 70's.

When we look back four or eight years from now at our accomplishments for peace at home and abroad, I think all of us will be proud of our extra efforts in these October-November days of 1968.

'WHAT HAVE AH GOT HERE? SOME KINDA ANARCHIST?'

TOM WICKER

The Year of the Protest

BEAUMONT, Tex. — George Wallace arrives in this East Texas port city in a few hours for a fairgrounds rally and a fund-raising dinner, and he will find that it is just the kind of country where his campaign can flourish.

"I just like him a 100 per cent better than them other two," says the waitress at the Holiday Inn. On the interstate highway lying like two gigantic wagon runs on the flat coastal plain between here and Houston, "Stand Up for America" billboards outnumber "This Time Nixon" boards by four to two. Nothing is to be seen or heard of Hubert Humphrey, although sometimes a voice does come out of the auto radio to plug local candidates and suggest laconically: "From courthouse to White House, vote Democratic."

The radio stations in these parts pour out a lot of hardcore patriotism—for instance, a lachrymose number called "Ballad of Two Brothers," in which one sibling marches in Vietnam, while the other in protest demonstrations at home; the first is killed, and the second then sees the error of his ways and joins up to fight the Communists.

But George Wallace is big in East Texas and the bordering areas of Louisiana for more reasons than the strong tone of Americanism that pervades the motels and shopping centers, and hangs over the oil derricks and tank farms that rise abruptly from the plain. For this, says Ed Van Zandt, the managing editor of the Beaumont Journal, is "the year of the protest."

Local officials claim, for instance, that the federal office of education is withholding about $387,000 in federal funds from the South Park Independent School District because it disapproves the operation of the district's "freedom of choice" pupil assignment plan and wants to bus-in students "from seven or eight miles away." That alone could make this "Wallace country."

Van Zandt believes public opinion in Beaumont and Jefferson County also has turned unfavorable to the war in Vietnam, despite the radio fare and the war material moving through the Beaumont ship channel to the Gulf of Mexico, leaving prosperity in its wake. "There's just a feeling they want to get it over with and bring the kids home and stop these other kids from having to go," the editor thinks. "And the people in power, they get blamed for the war and a lot of other things, even some Supreme Court decisions."

And then there are the riots and demonstrations, which haven't touched Beaumont yet, but everyone here sees television and knows about Watts and Chicago. They can hear a frequent Wallace Radio commercial that asks: "Why should you vote for George Wallace? Open a little business of your own somewhere and see what happens." This is followed by the sound of glass shattering, loudly. Wallace then comes on to pledge that he will protect private property.

All in all, Alvin Wiggins, the attorney who manages the Wallace candidacy here, is confident that his man will carry Jefferson County by a majority of the 60,000 or 70,000 who might vote. Labor is going strong for Wallace, he believes, "because of the ultra liberal aspects of Humphrey," and union men and their families make up perhaps 30 per cent of the vote.

The Wallace booth at the recent county fair outpooled the Humphrey booth easily and the Nixon booth could do no better than second, Wiggins points out, and he recalls that when the American Independents and the Republicans joined in a single independent ticket in the Beaumont city elections this year, they upset four incumbent Democratic councilmen.

Those who are less partial are less certain of Wallace's prospects. In some cases, this is because the Republicans are beginning to make a strong challenge in this traditionally Democratic area this year, even putting up candidates for minor offices like Justice of the Peace and Constable. In other cases, it is because of the unexpected support Humphrey now has in Texas from those ancient feudists, Gov. John Connally and Sen. Ralph Yarborough—who always runs strongly in this area because of the labor vote.

Nevertheless, Wiggins was happily putting final touches this afternoon on plans for a Wallace rally at which he expected at least 15,000, and a $25-a-plate fund-raising dinner, for which all 900 seats have been sold.

So, as Van Zandt puts it, the political situation in this area is in "a hell of a shape." The remarkable thing, here as elsewhere, is that this should be so in a time of such evident affluence. Wages and employment have seldom been higher in the refineries and petrochemical plants, and it seems evident that something besides the old-time pocketbook issues are dominating this election.

RUSSELL BAKER

Humphrey Misses the Signals

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON—As the presidential campaign thunders toward its anticlimax, something very much like hope has begun to lift the spirit of the Republican party.

This grows chiefly from polls which show Hubert Humphrey moving up in the stretch. "With luck we can still lose it," Republican leaders tell you. To the cynical this sounds like whistling in the light, but close analysis suggests that they may be right.

For one thing, it now appears that Humphrey really wants to win. For another, the Republicans still have Richard Nixon going for them, and as they say around the Senate Republican cloakroom, "If Dick can't lose it, it can't be lost."

Democrats for the most part are flabbergasted by Humphrey's drive, and not a little dismayed. Democrats, naturally, do not want to be responsible for governing the country the next four years, any more than the Republicans do.

They realize, just as clearly as the Republicans, that the presidency during the next four years will be not a prize but a sentence. Like the Republicans, they have worked hard in 1968 to avoid having this sentence imposed on them. This, of course, is why they chose Humphrey to run in the first place.

"The Republicans thought they had us boxed when they nominated Nixon," one highly placed Democrat explained the other day. "They figured that Nixon couldn't even beat your maiden aunt, and we would be stuck with the presidency."

As usual, however, the Republicans underestimated Democratic cunning. When the Democrats met in Chicago the despair was as thick as the tear gas.

"My maiden aunt could beat Dick Nixon," Jess Unruh, the Democratic baron of California, told a secret council of party leaders.

"That's right," said John Bailey, the party chairman, "but there's one other man in this country she can beat too." And everybody in the room smiles simultaneously and said, "Hubert Humphrey!"

When President Johnson was consulted, he said, "I like it, but a race between two who couldn't beat your maiden aunt can be a close thing. Too close

Higher Education Amendments

It doesn't seem credible, but even our greatest newspapers devoted only a scant couple of inches of print on an inside page to the signing by President Johnson of one of this year's most expensive and significant pieces of legislation: the gigantic $9.8 billion package of Higher Education Amendments of 1968.

The amendments could multiply the number of Federally backed bank loans available to college and vocational students in middle-income families;

Could be a giant step toward making equal higher educational opportunity for minority college students a reality;

Could boost the Federal investment in higher education in this fiscal year by as much as 30 per cent to as much as $2.1 billion -- with accelerating spending jumps in later years.

This story is simply too important to you and me to be lost this way! Its implications and ramifications are too far-reaching to be left to discussion only by the experts.

Among the relatively inexpensive but most significant provisions is one permitting the U.S. Office of Education to "reinsure" Federally backed low-cost loans for middle-income students. The agency would pay up to 80 per cent of losses on loans instead of letting state loan guarantee agencies absorb 100 per cent of such losses. In effect, this means that states which sign up for the reinsurance plan may be able to guarantee up to five times as many loans as they previously could. Theoretically, the number of students getting these loans could jump from 515,000 in fiscal 1968 to 2,500,000 a year.

Here are key new programs included in the amendments:

1) Special new services for disadvantaged students -- offered before students enter college, as they enter, and while they are in college. Services could include remedial reading, tutoring, counseling, just about anything the colleges can devise to help disadvantaged students succeed. The authorization for this provision jumps from $5.5 million this year to $56.7 million in fiscal 1970 to $96 million in fiscal 1971.

2) Awards of up to $75,000 to each college which sets up, improves or expands a cooperative education program permitting students to work part of the year for pay and study part of the year. This provision could multiply the number of colleges offering co-op education plans.

3) New "networks for knowledge" to help colleges pool costly or special resources with other colleges. Several colleges might, for example, pool funds to invest in a computer system. Or they might set up a closed circuit TV system to share special courses or lectures.

4) Financial assistance for students working toward their doctorates for careers in public service -- just as grants and fellowships are now available in other shortage-prone career fields (teachers, mathematicians, exotic foreign language experts).

5) Federal grants to colleges to launch, expand and improve their graduate schools.

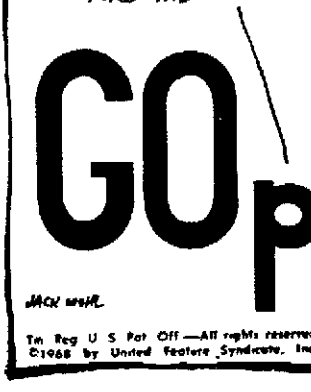

6) Grants to law schools to provide "clinical" experience for law students, e.g., field work on behalf of poverty families for which academic credit is given.

7) Grants for exceptional retired college professors -- who were forced to retire strictly because of their age -- to teach at small, struggling colleges and junior colleges.

When the next Congress gets around to appropriating funds for these programs in 1969, this Congress' authorizations (totalling over $250 million over the coming three years) could be slashed. But the 1968 Congress exempted the amendments from the spending ceiling -- suggesting the priorities we are now assigning to programs to assist the nation's colleges and college students.

26 From County Granges Attend State Sessions

At the 96th State Grange Session held last week in Butler, 26 representatives of Warren County granges attended the three-day session.

They were Robert and Jean Hollabaugh of Watson Grange; Nels and Hope Nelson of Valley Grange; Ida Grace Larson, Ralph and Adda Way, Cathryn Van Orsdale, and Hallie Holt of Ackley Grange; Ralph and Mabel Rapp and Merle and Flossie Schweitzer of Diamond Grange; Earl and Ethel Roberts and Thelma Theurel of East Branch Grange; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Carter of Columbus Grange; Delbert and Marjorie Werle, and Fred and Gladys Simones of Warren Grange; Leo and Segrid Johnson of Brokenstraw Grange; and Guy and Ruby Wilcox representing Warren County Pomona Grange. Twenty of these grangers met for a Warren County buffet get-together at the Garden Gate Restaurant.

Among the many speakers heard were Woodrow W. Tucker, member of National Grange Executive Committee and Past Master of Rhode Island State Grange, who urged the continued growth of the grange and stressed the need of the grange in America, and Leland H. Bull, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture, who talked of some of the legislation which has been promoted by the grange and passed, and of some of the programs carried on by the department.

Included in this year's session were statewide contest finals, including musical, vocal, square dance contests, and youth ritual contest. Also providing entertainment during the session was a show by the Venango Co. 4-H Chorus. A banquet was held with remarks again from Mr. Tucker, who was also on hand to meet with those attending the Masters' meeting to discuss problems such as getting and keeping youth in grange. Those attending this meeting from Warren County were Ruby Wilcox, Robert Hollabaugh, and Mrs. Robert Carter. Everyone was welcome for square and round dancing and refreshments at a youth party.

Several granges will receive membership recognition plaques and Lecturer's performance awards at Pomona grange on Nov. 9. These awards were accepted at State grange on behalf of Warren County by Pomona Master Ruby Wilcox and Pomona Lecturer Jean Hollabaugh.

During the Wednesday session the State Chaplain presented a memorial service remembering the past state officers and members who have passed away since the last year session. Particular remembrance was made of the passing of Brother Snyder at his home, father of J. Luther Snyder, State Secretary, who passed away Tuesday night of that week. Tours were offered for grangers on Wednesday afternoon and included a tour of the Armco Steel Mill, Old Stone House, Holy Trinity Monastery, and Harmony Museum.

The 6th degree was conferred on 531 candidates, 28 being from Warren County. They were: Dean, Virginia, Juanita, and Calvin Roberts, Francis and Max Rhodes, all from Brokenstraw Grange;

Clark Says Bomb Halt Would Hasten Peace

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, said Monday that a halt in U.S. bombing of Vietnam would help the slow-moving peace talks.

"We should stop trading American coffins for useless Vietnam real estate," said the Pennsylvania Democrat, seeking re-election against the challenge of Republican Congressman Richard S. Schweiker.

Clark, speaking to a luncheon audience, also said he favored a 50 per cent increase in social security benefits and that medicare should be enlarged to include the cost of prescriptions. He didn't say how he would finance such expanded programs, but said an increased social security tax was not the answer.

The veteran lawmaker also told his audience he saw no way to balance next year's federal budget without cutting military spending. He estimated that the Vietnam War and the race to the moon would push the budget to $110.115 billion. Clark said the possible alternatives were a devaluation of the dollar, elimination of many domestic programs, or increased taxes.

On another matter, the senator said that his mail still is running 3 to 2 in favor of strict gun controls.

Irene Carlson of Valley Grange; Kenneth and Margaret Jenkins, Clark Degolyer of Diamond Grange; Anna and Harry Perrine, Ruth Wilcox, Luther and Ida Wenzel, James and Catherine Stockdill, Chris Anderson, Lloyd and Ellen Rapp, Catherine Lingo, and Lucille Sullivan of Warren Grange; Eva Dunham of New London Grange; Carol Ann Hollabaugh, Kathy Wilcox, and Renee Chapel of Watson Grange; and Sherman and Myrna Burdick of Ackley Grange.

Guests of the convention were Robert and Ruth Jameson of Brokenstraw Grange; Madge Kehn, Kathryn Koelsky, Kate Nuhfer, Odessa Croman, James and Helen Smith, Edith Briggs, Tillie Anderson, Jean Arnold, and Esther Gustafson, of Warren Grange; Esther and Carl Thelin, Ruth and Herman Klatau, Olive Degolyer of Diamond Grange; Carver Wiltsie of Ackley Grange; Max Dunham of New London Grange; and Kay Schweitzer and Ray and Jean Thomas of Diamond Grange.

Two resolutions submitted to the State Grange by Warren County Pomona Grange were passed without significant change by the Pennsylvania delegate body. They were (1) opposing gun licensing and registration except for handguns, and (2) favoring automobile operators' licenses to show photograph to prevent youths from borrowing licenses to obtain liquor in adjoining states. These resolutions passed without opposition. Many other resolutions were acted upon, concerning such subjects as dairying, education, health insurance and safety, legislation, and agriculture.

The Thursday night session saw John W. Scott preside over his last session of Pennsylvania State Grange. Mr. Scott held the office for the six-year limit of a state officer. An installation team from Lawrence County, led by Deputy State Master Buchwald, installed the newly-elected officers of Pennsylvania State Grange. A Wayne Reading, past State Overseer, of Reading, Penna., was elected as Pennsylvania State Master and closed the 96th Annual Session of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

State Bureau To Handle Complaints

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Bureau of Investigation and Civil Rights will keep office hours when the polls are open Nov. 5 to process election complaints, Atty. Gen. William C. Bennett says.

The bureau, an arm of the State Justice Department, has offices in Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Erie, and Pittsburgh and agents in other cities throughout the state, Senate said last week.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little PASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, goopy, pasty taste. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get PASTEETH at all drug counters.

THERE'S MANY A SLIP BETWEEN THE CUP AND . . . Well, anyway, for those who are planning on enjoying a luncheon with friends at the Woman's Club during the "What's New For The Holidays Show?" on November 6th, 7th, mark the date for next week . . . I was all set to have luncheon there this Wednesday, turns out it would have been kind of a spectacularly lonely affair, and probably out on the sidewalk, at that! So, for those, such as myself who want to enjoy this pleasurable break at mid-day, the Soup and Pie luncheon tickets are $1, and serving, on both Wednesday and Thursday of next week, will be from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. Tickets of admission to the "What's New For The Holidays?" show are only 35 cents. More than 2,000 tickets have been distributed to various church, youth and civic groups for the show, according to ticket chairman, Mrs. George Templeton. For the show, only, tickets will be available at the door.

ONE OF THE COUNTRY'S FEW REMAINING one-room school-houses is right in this area. It is known as the Plank Road School and is commemorated on a plaque which pictures the school and gives a brief history . . . The Watson Parent Teacher Association has reordered a number of these and will be glad to accommodate anyone who may wish one, just contact any of its members . . . The PTA met for its October gathering last week in the schoolhouse and heard Mrs. Ray Mickelson, a delegate to the Warren Council PTA Workshop, give her report of the proceedings. After the business meeting, a social time was held with the Spirit of Halloween predominating. The next meeting of Watson PTA will be on November 26th, when Thanksgiving will be the theme for the evening, and the program will dwell on some of the pioneer background in which Watson Township is rich.

ANTIQUES, GIFTS, BAKED GOODS, CHRISTMAS GIFT ITEMS . . . all may be found this week on October 31st and November 1st, in Sugar Grove at the building next to Sprandles Confectionery Store; from 1 to 6 p. m. Thursday, and from 10 o'clock Friday morning until everything is sold . . . A special note to the women of the church (the WSCS is sponsoring the two day event), the committee in charge would appreciate your bringing everything in (excepting baked goods) tomorrow morning from 10:30 to 11:30, or at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon . . . Those who need someone to collect their item, or items, call 489-7469. And, incidentally, those patrons who would like to order home baked goods, call that same number ahead of time. To round out the list of things to be found at the two-day bazaar, there will be homemade candy, with peanut brittle the specialty, potted flowers, toys, and, a white elephant sale.

MISS EDITH YORK of Youngsville is fondly remembered by many as the talented equestrienne, who in the past, on long, bright summer days, and on into the crispness . . . and sometimes even in the cold wetness . . . of the Autumn weather, taught them to ride and sit a horse properly. This was her avocation; her vocation was teaching children in the Youngsville schools. Well, Edith is now recuperating from surgery and doing very well down in the John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital in Lantana, Florida 33460, and would probably appreciate receiving cards from her former pupils, both equestrian and scholastic.

MINIATURES: Tomorrow at 10 o'clock the meeting of the Pittsfield Home Extension Group takes place in Pittsfield Community House. Mrs. Herbert Bonnar and Mrs. Harry Himes will tell of the Leadership Training recently held, and Mrs. L. J. Elmhurst will demonstrate egg carton novelties. Mrs. Kenneth Clark is hostess chairman. Bring sack lunches; all women of area welcome.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has gotten another woman pregnant. I have forgiven him and told him I will stand by him and I hope we can have a good life together in spite of this tragedy.

The woman is a divorcee and knows my husband will not marry her. He agreed to pay her medical expenses and support the child.

Now the woman says she does not want the baby and my husband has asked me to take it. We have a baby of our own who will be one year old when the out-of-wedlock child is born.

I don't want the woman's baby for reasons which you can surely understand. Isn't it enough that I must live with the knowledge that my husband has done this terrible thing to our family? Must I have a reminder in our home for the next 20 years? Also I am afraid if we take the baby the woman will use it as an excuse to hang around. This would mean real trouble.

My husband says it is my Christian duty. What do you say?

— W.M.

DEAR W.M.: Christian duty, my eye. The baby should be put up for adoption through an agency. It would be infinitely better for the child if he were taken into a home and raised by two loving parents. Don't let your husband talk you into this bizarre scheme or you'll regret it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know it is wrong to be ashamed of my own mother but I can't help it. Mom has had very bad teeth for as long as I can remember. She hates to go to the dentist and has gone only when she was in such terrible pain that Dad practically had to carry her there.

Mom is now to the point where she doesn't have one good tooth in her head. She needs to have them all extracted but she won't do it. Some of the mean little neighbor kids call her a toothless hag and it makes me sick. Then, too, I worry about Mom because she is terribly thin and she doesn't eat right. I'm sure her teeth are to blame. She can't chew any solid food.

Money is no problem. What Mom needs is someone to make her see that she is wrecking her health by letting her teeth go. Please say something. — SORRY FOR HER

DEAR SORRY: Some people die sooner than they should because they neglect their teeth. Their health deteriorates due to poor nutrition and they become vulnerable to a variety of illnesses. Your mother sounds like a likely candidate.

Ask your Dad to insist that she go to a hospital and have a general anesthetic for the total extraction. She won't feel a thing.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Public Invited To Hear Panelists At YWCA, Nov. 5th

On Tuesday, November 5, at eight o'clock the Adult Activities Committee of the YWCA is offering to all residents of the community an opportunity to hear and participate in a program of vital importance to everyone. Participants in a panel discussion of the subject, "Religion and Psychiatry" will include the Reverend, Father Mark Roueche and the Reverend Franklin Hagberg, both of whom serve as chaplains at Warren State Hospital.

Dr. John Roop, member of the medical staff of the state hospital, will participate in the discussion from the standpoint of the clinical psychiatrist. Serving as moderator for this exposition of the relationship existing between the spiritual, emotional and physical aspects of the human personality will be Nelson A. Johnson, director of the Social Services Department of Warren State Hospital. Since more and more residents of the Warren area are in the welfare of the state hospital patients and the subject of mental health, in general, it is hoped that many persons will take advantage of this opportunity to hear some of the well-known specialists in this field of general concern.

To make it possible for all interested persons to attend this one evening session, YWCA membership will not be required, but there will be a nominal admission fee of fifty cents.

In order that adequate arrangements can be made in the Activities Building of the "Y", prior reservations are requested by phoning the YWCA office, 726-6350, or at 207 Second avenue.

Those attending are assured of being able to return to their homes in time to hear the important election returns.

Story Hour

Halloween stories and poems will be featured at the Warren Public Library story hour tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Ellen H. Eberly, children's librarian, will present the first program in the current series of story hours.

Boys and girls from Warren Borough and Warren County, in grades 1 through 4, are invited to attend the weekly story hours.

Surprise the youngsters with peanut coffee cake. Prepare batter for easy coffee cake as directed on the mix package; empty into foil pan found in package. Stir 1/4 cup chopped salted peanuts into the topping contained in the smaller bag. Sprinkle topping over the batter and bake according to package directions.

Nuptial Vows Are Pledged In First United Presbyterian

Evelyn C. Lewis, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Lewis of Linwood, N.J., became the bride of Larry A. Lawton recently in a double ring ceremony solemnized in the First United Presbyterian Church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Lawton of 405 East street, Warren. The Rev. Donald Spencer officiated in the presence of approximately one hundred and seventy-five guests.

Standing baskets of white gladioli and carnations with assorted white flowers adorned the chancel of the church. Wedding music was provided by Carroll A. Fowler, church organist. Mr. Lawton, father of the groom, standing in for the bride's twin brother who was unable to attend because of a flight delay at the Cleveland Airport, escorted the bride to the altar. She appeared in a white A-line gown with scoop neckline, bell sleeves with crocheted lace and seed pearls. A Watteau train with lace trim matching that of the gown, swept out in rich folds. Her headpiece with sequins and seed pearls secured her shoulder length veil and she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis. Mrs. Jane Lawton, grandmother of the groom, gave the bride a white linen and lace handkerchief from England to carry, and a sixpence for her shoe.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Beth Webster of Philadelphia, was in cinnamon crepe and satin with matching headpiece. She carried a bouquet of roses, rust, and gold pompons. Dressed similarly, but in gold, were the bridesmaids, Miss Becky Burdick of Smetport, Miss Linda Geese of Cambridge, Ohio, Miss Carol Lehman of Albany, N.Y., Mrs. Nancy Dunham, sister of the groom, of Warren. The flower girl, Mistress Tammy Lawton, was in a frock of gold crepe and satin brocade and her flowers were pale yellow and butterscotch pompons.

The best man was Bruce Lawton of Warren, brother of the groom; ushers were Dennis Lawton, his brother, Jack Collins, Chester Dunham, brother-in-law of the groom, and James Sanden, his cousin. Master Scott Lawton was the ringbearer.

Mrs. Lawrence W. Lawton, mother of the groom, chose a gown of lime green satin brocade with black patent accessories and a white gardenia corsage. Grandmothers, Mrs. Ida Sanden and Mrs. Jane Lawton had corsages of white roses. A reception was held in the Glade Township Fire Hall for one hundred and fifty guests. Decorations were carried out in white bells, streamers and paper carnations of brown and

Garden Club Announces Gala Show

The Warren Garden Club announces a gala holiday show, "Twas A Month Before Christmas" to be presented by Gorton's Flowers and Gifts, Inc. and the Warren Garden Club on Monday, November 25, at 8:00 p. m. in the Woman's Club Auditorium.

Designers Larry Haupin and Betty Jenkins of Gorton's will present an evening of fun, ideas and instructions on the use of flowers and artificial decorations for the home this Christmas.

After awarding beautiful arrangements as door prizes, a question and answer period is planned followed by cookies, coffee and conversation.

Tickets will be available from any Garden Club member as of November 1st. They may also be purchased at the door the evening of the show.

Circle the calendar now and begin your holiday season by attending "Twas A Month Before Christmas."

Allegheny TPG Needs Cubmaster

The October Meeting of the Allegheny Valley Teacher-Parent Group was held at Washington School with Mrs. Clyde Dennis, president presiding. Devotions were led by Mrs. Robert Walker.

During the meeting, the subject of Cub Scouts was discussed. The T.P.G. will sponsor the Meadville Twp. Clarendon Borough Pack, but as yet, have been unable to obtain the was asked, that any man who is interested in scouting and helping young boys, respond.

Speaker for the evening was Richard Brown, executive director of the office of Economic Opportunity for Warren-Forest County. Mr. Brown presented an interesting and informative talk on the various phases of the work.

Attendance award was won by Mrs. Maurer's 5th grade. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carlett's and Mrs. McNeal's 1st grades.

Separate package of refrigerated crescent rolls. Spread with butter. Place slice of canned pear in center of each. Sprinkle with mixture of lemon peel, brown sugar, and granulated sugar. Roll up. Bake 15 minutes at 375 degrees. Sprinkle powdered sugar over the tops of each and serve immediately.

gold. The bride's table had a centerpiece of all white flowers and at the other tables were rust, bronze and gold flowers. Master and mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Emil C. Sanden; aides were Mrs. Bruce Lawton, Mrs. Vera Rosenkrantz.

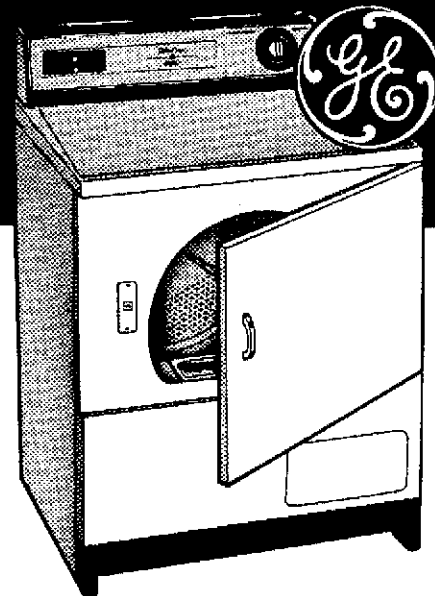

The new Mrs. Lawton wore a traveling ensemble of a white wool with brown wool cape having white trim. Upon returning from Niagara Falls and Paul Smith, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. Lawton are now living in Edinboro, Penna., where Mr. Lawton is employed at Penn Union Electric as an industrial engineer. Pre-nuptial affairs were hosted by Mrs. Lawrence W. Lawton, Mrs. Nancy Dunham and Mrs. Bruce Lawton. The rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Lawton at Mineral Well Restaurant.

Out of town guests attended from Washington, N.J.; Oil City, Pittsburgh, Penna.; Ohio, New York, and Mrs. Minnie Andrews from Barnsley, England.

A GAS DRYER SAVES A LOT MORE THAN MONEY

A modern, dependable Gas dryer saves in so many ways. Time, for instance. No more clothes line hang-ups. No waiting for the sun to shine. Think of all the things you can do with the time you save. And a Gas dryer saves Mom the back aches of lugging loads of laundry to and from a long, long clothes line. No more bending and stretching. Not only does a Gas clothes dryer save wear and tear on Mom, it saves wear and tear on clothes. A Gas dryer tumble dries the most delicate clothes safely . . . gently. They come out soft, fluffy, sweet-smelling as a day in May. And of course, since a penny-a-load Gas dryer does the job for a fraction of the cost of drying clothes with electricity, you can figure it'll save well over $100 in operating costs over the life of the dryer. A gas dryer is a time saver, a clothes saver, a Mom saver and a money saver.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I love preserved baby shoes, but dislike the "bronzed" type, as they are too artificial looking. A method I use is much nicer, I think.

Leave the infant shoes "as is" — soled, scuffed or what have you. This is what adds to their nostalgic beauty.

Buy a small amount of plaster of Paris costs just a few cents. Using water, mix enough in an old dish to fill both shoes. Make it into a VERY thick but workable "dough."

Completely fill the shoe from the toe right up to the top, with the shoe being laced up and tied. Pack it in firmly and FULLY.

While still wet, smooth over the part at the shoe top and using a nut-pick or toothpick mark that smoothed area with your desired data. (I put "Judy" on the top area of one shoe and "1942" on the top of the other.) Then let 'em set to harden.

My daughter's shoes are over 25 years old now and still stand firm as cement, all scuffed and dirty and oh, so precious.

Evelyn Cerutti
Works! And is adorable, may I say?

DEAR HELOISE:
I gave my old jewelry to the local county home. It was then used as Bingo prizes for the residents there. Were they ever happy to get my pretty, no-longer-used jewelry!

Ruthie, you're an angel! It takes so little to bring a shine to the eyes of those less fortunate than ourselves... yet we seldom take time to make those little gestures that bring others happiness.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Assemble

The presiding minister of the Warren congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses announced to the congregation this week that Dunkirk, N. Y., has been chosen as the site for their assembly to be held December 6-8 of this year.

Mr. Theodore Smith said that Warren was one of seventeen congregations in northwestern Pennsylvania and southwestern New York that would convene in Dunkirk. "These assemblies are held periodically," said Mr. Smith, "and we look forward to being present along with our fellow Christians. They are truly spiritually uplifting and now, more than ever before in the history of mankind, we need so much to have our faith strengthened in view of the increasing faithlessness ex-

Why would our baby stop trying to walk?
Frequently babies give up because they are afraid. The bottoms of their shoes pick up wax from linoleum or hardwood floors. Since the majority of babies walk on the balls of their feet, slippery soles are dangerous and the babies seem to know it.
One remedy would be not to wax the floors. Another is to "roughen" the soles with a bottle cap. The crimped edge cuts through the wax in a hurry. Strips of adhesive tape help temporarily but the tape becomes as slippery as leather when the baby repeatedly runs into the kitchen and out on to rugs that buff the wax to a high gloss. Learning to balance the body on one tiny foot at a time is difficult enough without adding the hazard of slippery soles.

Mormons Participate In Open House With Fredonia Branch

Several members of the Jamestown Branch of the Church of Jesus Christ visited the new Branch in Fredonia, N. Y., to attend a conference there, and to participate in an open house which commemorated the first anniversary of the Fredonians as an organized branch of the church.

Present were these Erie district officers: Walter P. Holbrook of Fredonia, president; counselor, Emerson Brocius of Erie; Myrl Kelley of Jamestown, clerk, and Mrs. Kelley; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross of Meadville; Mr. and Mrs. Azre Rankin of Oil City; Mrs. Axel Mortenson of Chandeliers Valley.

Also among the guests was the mother of Dr. R. Gary Layton, faculty member at Fredonia State College, Mrs. Leone Layton of Salt Lake City, Utah. Mrs. Layton is a member of the General Board of Relief Society, the women's auxiliary of the Mormon Church. While in the East, she attended the meeting of the National Council of Women in New York City where Mrs. Belle Spafford was elected president of the Council.

Mrs. Layton was also a guest at the regular meeting of the Jamestown Relief Society and spoke briefly about the recent conference attended by more than 10,000 women in the Salt Lake City Tabernacle. The women, she said, represented most of the free nations of the world.

Recent visitors at the Jamestown Branch were the Clifford Currys of Covina, California, former residents of Jamestown. Mr. Curry was the speaker at the Sunday evening sacrament meeting.

WARREN PLAYERS PRODUCTION

'Pirates of Penzance' Receives Standing Ovation

By BETTY RICE

The enduring popularity of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas was abundantly proved Saturday night as the entire cast of "Pirates of Penzance" brought many to their feet during a final curtain call.

This, the 136th public production of Warren Players, could well go down in history as one of its greatest from the first notes of the overture to the Act II finale.

From the principals to the wonderful chorus and the superb pit orchestra, voices and music combined beautifully to provide an evening of pure pleasure that passed all too quickly. Whatever problems those in the audience might be facing, surely were swept away by the typical Gilbert quips, paradoxes and ludicrous dilemmas, laced with the delightful songs and situations.

While it is always difficult (and sometimes dangerous) to single out one particular star, it must be said that Patricia Frazer, wife of the late Dr. Paul Frazer and mother of three, brought to the local stage a voice and presence so exquisite that a round of applause was accorded the conclusion of each of her appearances.

She is a member of Warren Philomel Club and has the distinction of singing for two governors, William Scranton and Ray Shafer.

Equally great, however, were others who assumed major roles in Pirates of Penzance. Bill Boger, who with his wife, Barbara, directed the smashing success; Karen Hogue, who also served as director of vocal music for the production; Robert Roshong, making a first appearance; Andy Yurick, veteran and always great performer; Jim Eldridge, who possesses a wonderful voice and personality and Bob Kates, a senior at Warren Area High School with many theatrical talents.

Musically the show soared to great heights but it must also be noted that respective roles were handled with professional ease in the acting department as well. The Players new sound system was put to effective use for the first time with lighting effects outstanding.

Jerry Elmgren directed the orchestra for this Gilbert and Sullivan production with Malja Pawley as pianist.

Two generations of six families were represented in the production—Andy Yurick Sr. in the cast, Andy Jr. in the chorus, John Yurick, in the orchestra, Marya Yurick, makeup, and Alice Yurick, producer; Patricia Frazer in the cast, Judith Frazer in the orchestra; Lois Muir, makeup, Gardner Muir, orchestra; Frank Cruickshank, James Cruickshank and John Cruickshank, chorus; Bruce Wood and daughter, Amy, chorus; Nels Larson, chorus and Barbara Larson, cast.

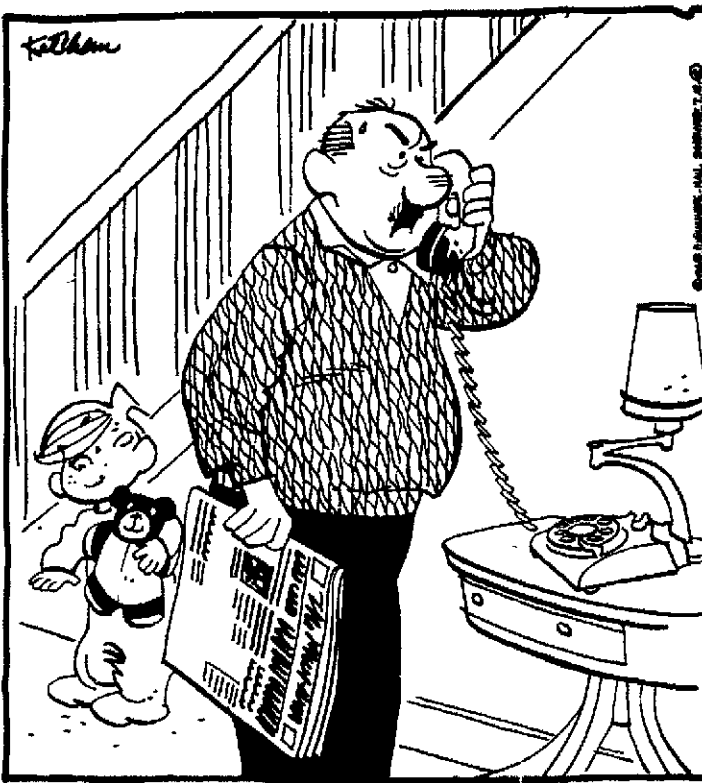

Other members of the fine orchestra were Helen Olson, Jo Simonsen, Arlene Conn, Lisa Blacchi, Jim Crozier, Livio Bertolini, Virginia Potter, Nancy Bleach and Donna Mira.

Also singing in the chorus were Mary Oriole, Becky Eldridge, Cheryl Mastrian, Jan Cowles, Jean Proud, Barbara Miller, Barbara Dunning, Barbara Boger, Ellen Hebel, Joyce Cosby, Donna Scharrs, Rudy Kopecky, Jan Edwards, George Grady, George Cunningham Jr., Glenn Cosby, Mary Mathyer, Nels Larson and Doris Sweet.

Kudos too for the entire backstage crew whose labors are so essential to a successful production. Costumes and scenery were obtained by special arrangement with Tracy Music Library in Boston, Mass. Both added much to the beauty of the performance.

As co-director with Meredith Johnson of the next Warren Players production, "The Odd Couple," to follow Pirates of Penzance won't be easy. Try-outs, however, are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today (Monday), Tuesday and Wednesday at Players headquarters.

Strictly light entertainment, believed necessary to fill an entertainment need in the area, is the bill of fare for this season. The choice of Gilbert and Sullivan as an opener couldn't have been better.

'69 Chevelle SS 396 Sport Coupe

If the '69 Chevelle can't do it, don't try it.

There are mid-size cars that overwhelm you with words, then underwhelm you in performance. Not Chevelle.

It handles precisely. Grips the road forcefully. Moves with authority.

In Chevelle's SS 396 form, you seem to move from here . . . . . to there, like that. One '69 reason is the newly available chambered pipe dual exhaust system. This low restriction system helps develop more usable power and eliminates regular type mufflers.

Couple that with other standard SS items like the exclusive Turbo-Jet 396 V8, fat F70 x 14 tires on new sport wheels with wider 7-inch rims, and power disc brakes.

Now you have the concentrated Chevrolet that some of our engineers say is the nearly perfect machine. If you're in the mood for SS'ing there's more good news: The Chevelle SS 396 package is available on four models in 1969—convertible, two sport coupes, and a pillared coupe.

See your Chevrolet dealer. Try a Chevelle. Tackle a hill or take on some curves.

You'll be an instant believer.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

"COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE"

DESKS are an often neglected item of home furnishing, something you think of afterwards when you remember you need one or more. But a good desk should be much more than an afterthought. Few pieces offer so much for your decorating dollar in terms of beauty, utility and storage in minimum space. Every home needs a convenient place to put letters, incoming mail, bills to be paid, assorted bits and pieces of paper, writing materials. That means a desk, perhaps in the living room. You may also need one in a den, student's desks for the children's rooms, perhaps a small desk just for the woman of the house. You can actually make a fine desk a dominant decorative piece. You might consider a contemporary adaptation of such an old favorite as the tall secretary with its concealed, fold-down writing surface and wonderfully handy cubby-holes and drawers for miscellaneous storage. A handsome modern desk or a fine antique may serve equally well. But do plan a place for a desk (or desks) right from the start. You'll find an excellent selection, from small personal desks to striking decorator pieces in our display. We'll be happy to help you choose . . . to solve your every decorating need.

Jimmy Hines To Play For Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Hines, the world's fastest human, left Olympic glory behind Monday and joined the Miami Dolphins for the gold that will go with an American Football League career.

Wearing his two Olympic gold medals—for a world record 9.9 clocking in the 100-meter run and for anchoring the record-setting 400-meter relay team—Hines went through a mock contract signing for photographers. Actually, he came to terms with the Dolphins last Thursday at Las Vegas, Nev., where the club president, Joe Robbie, was attending a convention.

"It was the safest bet we ever made at Las Vegas," Robbie quipped.

But the question of when Hines will actually go into action for Miami will be settled only after he shows that he can catch passes and take his knocks, Coach George Wilson said.

"We would like to get him in there returning kicks as soon as possible," Wilson said. "Then if he shows us he can catch the ball, we'll use him as a wide receiver."

But next Sunday's game at San Diego will be definitely too early to use Hines in any capacity, Wilson added.

Hines, a high school football star at Oakland, Calif., passed up college football to take a track scholarship at Texas Southern University in Houston.

But he said football was "my first love" and he didn't think the transition to pro football would be too hard.

At McClymonds High School in Oakland, he twice made the All-State team. He scored 13 touchdowns as a senior, gaining 864 yards rushing and 500 on pass receptions.

As a high school trackman, Hines tied Jesse Owens' national record of 9.4 for the 100-yard dash. He received a score of 100 for college football scholarships.

At Texas Southern, he tied the world 60-yard indoor record of 5.9 three times and the world record of 9.1 for the 100.

The Dolphins signed him in the sixth round of the 1968 draft but encouraged him to go on to the Olympics before discussing a contract.

Robbie said he watched Hines run in the Olympics but was especially impressed "by the commendable manner in which he conducted himself" during a time when two members of the U.S. team were being suspended for giving black power gestures from the victory stand.

Dallas Falls Again To Packers

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Master quarterback Bart Starr unloaded four touchdown passes on Dallas' proud doomsday defense Monday night and the world champions rolled to a 28-17 victory over the team they have beaten in the last two National Football League title games.

The victory shot the Packers into a tie for the lead in the Central Division with a 3-3-1 record and left the previously undefeated Cowboys with but a game lead over New York in the Capitol Division at 6-1.

Starr, who missed last week's game with a pulled muscle, rallied the Packers from a 10-7 halftime deficit with perfectly timed passes as the Cotton Bowl crowd of 74,604 groaned.

He connected on passes of three and 32 yards to tight end Marv Fleming and found Boyd Dowler on a five-yard scoring throw in the second half surge before a national television audience. In the second quarter, he nailed Carroll Dale with a perfect 26-yard touchdown throw.

It was a bitter loss for Dallas, which has never beaten Green Bay in a regular season or playoff game. Twice Dallas has failed in the final seconds in the

Warren Boosters To Elect On Wednesday

With a victory to talk about and the election of six directors on the agenda, Wednesday's meeting of the Warren Sports Boosters is expected to draw a full house.

President John Smith urges all members and fans to attend, as the directors' election will determine the activities of the Boosters for the coming year.

Nominations will be accepted from the floor prior to the voting, with 11 members put forward at last week's session.

Atlanta Waives Five Regulars

ATLANTA (AP) — Norm Van Brocklin, new coach of the Atlanta Falcons, has put six players on waivers, including five starters, Falcons General Manager Frank Wall confirmed Monday night.

The six released were:

- Defensive cornerback Lee Calland, a regular with the Falcons since he was drafted from Minnesota in 1966.
- Cornerback Marion Rushing, also a regular since chosen from the St. Louis Cardinals in the same 1966 National Football League draft.
- Fullback Brendan McCarthy, a rookie from Boston College who was picked up on waivers and has started every game this season for the Falcons.
- Defensive safety Phil Spiller, picked up this year on waivers from the St. Louis Cardinals.
- Center Joe Cerne, picked up on waivers from San Francisco.
- Defensive tackle Jim Norton, the last remaining player from the trade for the No. 1 draft choice in 1967. Norton came from the San Francisco 49ers.

Asked if rumors of the shake-up were true, Wall replied that they were but declined further comment. He said some of the players involved had not yet been told.

Any of the six could be recalled within 48 hours if Van Brocklin so chooses. When a player is placed on waivers, another team has 24 hours in which to claim him and the waiving team has 24 hours after that in which to recall.

Van Brocklin was not available for comment.

Of the six, Norton and McCarthy probably were the biggest surprises. Norton, a 6-foot-4, 254-pounder, played well at times, but had a bad day last Sunday against the Cleveland Browns.

McCarthy, 6-foot-3 and 217 pounds, played his college football at Boston and was regarded as a promising newcomer who needed experience.

NFL title games against the Packers.

Dallas quarterback Don Meredith played most of the second half with a broken nose after he had hit Bob Hayes with an 18-yard touchdown pass in the first quarter.

Meredith, harried by a strong Packer rush, found halfback Craig Baynham with a 27-yard scoring pass in the fourth period to draw Dallas to within four points, 21-17.

But Ray Nitschke snapped up a fumble by Baynham on the Dallas 25 and Starr hit Dowler with two consecutive passes for the score.

Meredith's nose was broken when he was tackled hard by Willie Davis, who was tagged with a 15-yard penalty for grabbing Meredith's face mask.

Kane Tops Beaty

The Beaty Junior High Football team finished the season with a loss yesterday as the Kane Wolves downed the "little" Dragons 12-0. Francis Johnson scored both TD's for the Wolves.

Johnson's first score was a six yard off tackle play. The second six-points came after a 56-yard drive capped by a two yard off tackle slant.

The Dragons just weren't able to get their machinery going as they finish the season with a 3-3-1 slate.

Denny Kelly, Age 9, Wins Weekly TMO Grid Contest With 17 Right

This week was a real toughie in the T-M-O football contest as most of the entries hit lower than the .500 mark. Despite the bad luck, Denny Kelly picked 17 of the 20 games correctly to take the $15.00 first prize.

Second place went to Edna Seaquist and third place went to Kitty Lou Downs. Both Seaquist and Downs picked 16 right; however, Mrs. Seaquist beat Kitty Lou out in the tie breaker.

Kelly is the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kelly of 19 Second St., Tidioite. Denny only made three mistakes in the contest. He had all the high school games right but missed the Miami-Denver clash in the pros and the Pennsylvania-Princeton and Notre Dame-Michigan State college games.

An interesting note is that he was only off by three points in the tie breaker although it wasn't necessary to determine the winner that way. The game ended with St. Louis 31, New Orleans 17 and he picked the Saints to lose 34-17.

Mrs. Seaquist lives at 15 Plum st, here in Warren. She also picked the high school games correctly. She missed the same game as did Denny but also was mixed up on the Texas Tech-SMU contest.

In the tie breaker she picked New Orleans 14, St. Louis 34 to miss the final total by six.

Ten-year-old Kitty Lou is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Downs of 8 W. Third St. Kitty picked the Tusculum-Franklin game incorrectly along with the San Francisco-Detroit game, the Pennsylvania-Princeton and Washington-Idaho battles.

Her tie breaker score was St. Louis 23, New Orleans 17. This placed her eight points off the total and gave Mrs. Seaquist the second spot over Kitty.

Two other entries also picked 16 right; however, one was ten points off the tie breaker and the other was 17 points away.

The high school games appeared to be pretty easy this week with fourteen entries picking all six right. In the pro division there were four perfect picks and in college play only a pair of entries could give every

Jets' Johnny Sample Has Old Grudge Against NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — "I got a lot of hate for them. I got something to get even with them about,"

Johnny Sample is a cornerback for the New York Jets of the American football League. At one time in his colorful but controversial career he was a star in the National Football League, a member of the Baltimore Colt championship team.

He's been with the Jets, however, since 1966 when no one in the NFL ostensibly wanted him. He now is an integral part of the Jets' drive toward their first Eastern Division title.

That's why he's got Super Bowl on his mind.

"I've been on two championship teams," he said, "but the Super Bowl would mean more to me because I was blackballed in the National League. They tried to keep me from making a living for my family."

"I got a lot of hate for them. I don't have anything against the players but against the hierarchy, the owners and the coaches."

THE TRUE OLYMPIC SPIRIT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 28—Spontaneously appalls the stuffed shirts of the International Olympic Committee. They prefer regimentation and they obviously were outraged by the spirit of hijinks that swept over the athletes during the closing ceremonies at the Tokyo Olympics. So they primly limited the parades to seven athletes per nation for the grand finale Sunday of the games of the 19th Olympiad.

To their vast dismay, though, it didn't work. The other athletes also had helped to make this such an unexpectedly magnificent show. And they refused to be shunted into the wings. Not only did they feel that they belonged on center stage, they cascaded out of the stands to become an integral part of the last curtain call. It was a warm and wonderful demonstration, a perfect example of the rich camaraderie that the I.O.C. strives so earnestly to engender. Here was a manifestation of the true Olympic spirit and it erupted in spite of the fuddy-duddies of the I.O.C. whose overly developed sense of propriety had tried to balk it.

The chronology is interesting. Before the Olympics in Tokyo, a 2-year-old Chinese boy wrote Avery Brundage, president of the I.O.C., and made a suggestion. The youngster said that the parade of athletes for the opening ceremonies was strictly national in scope, each group marching behind its own flag.

But the closing day parade, he said, should separate the games from national distinctions and become one international brotherhood of sportsmen by mixing up the athletes, willy-nilly, in one group rather than in tightly disciplined national units. The I.O.C. agreed.

However, the Olympic fathers miscalculated the natural exuberance of youth. At Tokyo they became a happy, disorganized, frolicsome mob with nationalities interspersed. They behaved with all the gay abandon of revellers on New Year's eve, care-free guys and dolls out to have a ball.

Most high-spirited of all were the New Zealanders. When they shaying around the track brought them in front of the box where Emperor Hirohito was reviewing the parade, they bowed formally in his direction, waved at him and blew kisses in his direction. I remember focusing by binoculars on the emperor. The man who once had been regarded as a god acted very human. He laughed in genuine amusement and waved back at them.

But the I.O.C. was so indignant at such disrespect—was it, really?—that it restricted the marchers Sunday to one flag bearer and six athletes for each nation at the Mexico City closing. This also was a gross miscalculation.

Once the entry parade ended and the handful of athletes with their flag bearers and standard bearers were lined up in the center of the field, the break-out from the stands began.

An American in an Olympic windbreaker with U.S.A. lettered on the front stepped over the low barrier and was confronted by an oversized Boy Scout guard with a rifle. The Scout tried to fend him off, using the technique of a bullfighter with a bull. The matador lost. The American raced down the field to join the other athletes.

This burst the dam. One by one, dozens by dozens, hundreds by hundreds and thousands by thousands, athletes poured from the stands. They held their own parade on the track while the mariachi band of 900 valiantly kept playing. Young Mexican spectators, overjoyed by a gloriously successful set of Olympic Games, joined in.

It was a scene of magnificent disorder. Up in the TRIBUNE OF HONOR Brundage looked grim. But alongside him Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, the president of Mexico, smiled happily at the display of youthful exuberance. He had a right to smile because Mexico had overcome what had once seemed insuperable odds to stage the greatest Olympic Games.

The kids showed Brundage and the other elders what fraternization really means. Green-robed athletes from Chad—or were they from Nigeria?—jigged a tribal dance that looked suspiciously like a discotheque frug. And nearby guys and dolls danced with them.

The impromptu marchers stole standards from the standard bearers and marched with them. A Mexican gold medal winner was carried around the track on willing shoulders. They kept it up for a half hour, almost as if they were clinging to an Olympics that had already ended. Nobody wanted to let go. Neither did the Mexicans.

They waved sombreros in the stands and chanted "May-hee-co." Nor did it halt in the Estadio Olimpico. Almost until dawn today auto horns blared in rhythmic cadence, beating time to the shouts of the riders. The shouts were fervent and prideful screams of "May-hee-co." They ruined sleep but few really minded. Mexico's pride in its Olympic accomplishment was fully justified.

40-POUND GOBBLER

This handsome turkey fell to Joseph D. Kirk of the Fox Trailer Court, Warren, on opening day Saturday in the Pittsfield area. The bird, whose 40 pounds should insure an ample feast for the whole family and then some, fell to a 16-gauge single-barrel. (Photo by Mansfield)

Olympic Notes & Quotes

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The 19th Olympic Games, with all of its controversies and occasional confusion, turned out to be a superlative spectacle which gave birth to a lot of little superlatives.

Here are a few: Outstanding team: The United States, no contest, with a record total of 107 medals, 45 gold, and numerous world records.

Biggest disappointment team: The Soviet Union, with a big fall-down in track and field, as well as other sports. The Politburo is investigating.

Top female athlete: Vera Caslavskaya, Czechoslovakian gymnast, who won four gold medals, and a gold wedding band, repeating as women's all-around champion.

Top male athlete: Charles Hickcox of Phoenix, Ariz., three gold medals, one silver in swimming, sharing one world record.

Best quote: Mrs. Maxine Miller, 57, U.S. fencer, told of the compulsory sex test: "If I fail, what am I going to tell my eight grandchildren—call me grandpa?"

Outstanding individual performance: Bob Beamon of El Paso, Tex., whose 29-2½ world record long jump completely skirted the 28-foot barrier.

Biggest boo-boo: Lesley Bush of Princeton, N.J., defending gold medalist in women's platform diving, who flubbed a simple swan dive to lose her crown. "Any kid can do it," she moaned.

Biggest upset: Kip Keino's front-running victory over America's Jim Ryun, the world's mile record-holder, in the 1,500 meters.

Most surprising team: The sleek, fast-running Kenyans, three gold medals, three silvers and a bronze in track and field, which beat the Russians.

Gooftiest incident: Greco-Roman wrestler from Bulgaria booted out of the games for snuffing a towel soaked with stimulant.

AP'S MAJOR COLLEGES

Southern California Leads Poll; Kansas, Penn State Close Gap

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kile Southern California widened its lead over runnerup Ohio State in the weekly Associated Press major college football poll Monday while both Kansas and Penn State closed ground on the leaders.

The Trojans (3-0), who resume activity at Oregon this week drew 24 of the 43 first-place votes from a national panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Southern Cal had 21 firsts a week ago.

Ohio State, 31-24 winners over Illinois for its fifth straight, at tracted 12 firsts, compared to 15 last week. The Buckeyes will be at home to Michigan State, No. 16, Saturday.

Kansas made Iowa State its sixth straight victim, 46-25 and picked up six firsts to hold third place ahead of Penn State, which drew one first place ballot after bombing Boston College 29-0 for its fifth in a row.

The point total, based on 20 for first and a graduated scale down to one point for 15th place, gave Southern California a 64-point lead over Ohio State, 786-722. A week ago they led by only 16 points. Kansas was a strong third with 686 and Penn State a solid fourth with 592.

The major casualty of the weekend was Notre Dame, upset by Michigan State, 21-17, and dropped all the way from No. 5 to No. 12.

Tennessee, Purdue and Georgia, all moved up a peg to take over fifth, sixth and seventh places. Tennessee had an off day. Purdue downed Iowa 44-14 and Georgia beat Kentucky 35-14.

Both Miami, Fla. and Syracuse, who had been No. 9 and No. 10, were knocked off and dropped out of the top 20. Miami lost to Auburn 31-6 and Syracuse was run over by California 43-0.

California, Michigan and Missouri all moved into the first 10. California thumped Syracuse, Michigan clobbered Minnesota 35-20 and Missouri ran over Kansas State 56-20.

Newcomers to the top 20 were Southern Methodist, which advanced to No. 13 by drubbing Texas Tech 39-18; Houston which became No. 15 after beating Mississippi 29-7; Michigan State, No. 16 on its upset of Notre Dame; and Ohio University which became No. 19 after rolling over Dayton 42-12 for its sixth straight. Mississippi and Texas Tech dropped out of the top 20, along with Miami and Syracuse.

The top 20, with first place votes, records and total points:

1. South, Calif (24)	5-0 786
2. Ohio State (12)	5-0 722
3. Kansas (6)	6-0 686
4. Penn St. (1)	5-0 592
5. Tennessee	4-0-1 442
6. Purdue	5-1 420
7. Georgia	5-0-1 394
8. California	5-1 336
9. Michigan	5-1 260
10. Missouri	5-1 197
11. Texas	4-1-1 153
12. Notre Dame	4-2 112
13. South. Methodist	5-1 92
14. Louisiana State	5-1 74
15. Houston	3-1-1 67
16. Michigan State	4-2 66
17. Arkansas	5-1 63
18. Florida State	4-1 38
19. Ohio U.	6-0 25
20. Florida	4-1-1 20

Cy Young Award Goes To Gibson

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Gibson, the St. Louis Cardinals pitcher who set a major league earned run average record low of 1.12, was named winner of the National League Cy Young Award Monday by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Gibson, a 22-9 performer for the pennant-winning Cards, was the unanimous choice of the 20-member panel, two from each league city.

Gibson is in Japan with the Cardinals who are on a goodwill exhibition tour.

Although Gibson had two previous 20-victory seasons he never received a Cy Young vote until this year. He is the second Negro to win the award. Don Newcombe of the old Brooklyn Dodgers was the first winner in 1956.

Gibson's earned run average of 1.12 broke the National League mark of 1.22 set by Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Phillies in 1915. He also topped the American League record for a pitcher with 300 or more innings, the 1.14 by Walter Johnson of Washington in 1913.

During the 1968 season, Gibson won 15 straight games, a Cardinal club record, and reeled off a streak of 47 scoreless innings.

Three ABA Teams Equal NBA Says Oakland Star Rick Barry

OAKLAND (AP) — Rick Barry, the "Super Oak" counted on to help save the American Basketball Association, says don't worry, the league is here to stay.

And the top ABA teams, he says, could compete with the National Basketball Association expansion teams and "not have to worry about things."

Barry, the 6-7 former University of Miami (Fla.) starwood and won from the San Francisco Warriors of the NBA, has lived up to his Super Oak billing so far with 114 points—an average of 38 a game—as Oakland jumped off to a 3-0 record.

The 24-year-old Barry, part owner of the Oaks, "played the first game like it was for the championship," said Alex Hannum, who coached Barry in 1965-66, his rookie season, at San Francisco.

The Oaks played before 13,000 at Indianapolis, 9,000 at Louisville and nearly 6,000 at New Orleans.

Barry, who came off a year's layoff six pounds heavier, is tied for the team lead in rebounds and is second in assists. In 1966-67, in leading the Warriors to the NBA Western Division title, he led the NBA in scoring with an average of 35.6 a game.

"Too many people are knocking the ABA," says Barry, who was forced to sit out his NBA option last season when the Warriors obtained an injunction after he signed with the Oaks. "Everybody is NBA-oriented," he adds. "It's foolish to cut down the league. I think we play a more exciting type of ball because we have smaller guards and those little men can do things you don't see in the NBA."

Barry, who concedes that in the ABA "you don't have seven-footers blocking shots," says Oakland, New Orleans and Minnesota of the ABA are as good if not better than the NBA expansion teams, San Diego, Seattle, Chicago, Phoenix and Milwaukee.

"There's definitely more speed in our league," says Barry. "The major difference is the NBA's strength under the boards."

Hannum agrees. "The ABA is not a power game," he says. "To me, it is more wide open and interesting."

Barry has made four of six baskets for three points, outside the 25-foot semi-circle, but thinks the distance should be shortened to 22 feet.

How about the ABA's red, blue and white ball? "It makes no difference," he said. "If you shoot it right it goes in."

Pathologist Testifies German Ballerina Alive When Burned

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Robert Langhust, charged with murder in the death of a German ballerina whose charred skeleton was found in a suburban area, was bound over to the grand jury Monday.

The ruling by Coroner Ralph J. Stalter came after Allegheny County's chief pathologist, Dr. Cyril H. Wecht, testified he believed Renata Kaltenmorgen, 23, was alive when she was burned on a pile of rubber tires.

Wecht said an autopsy showed the cause of death to be acute carbon monoxide poisoning and burns of the body.

After giving a brief explanation of the autopsy, Wecht said: "What I am saying — I believe this girl was alive at the time the fire was started."

Langhust, a 25-year-old apprentice machinist from Rt. 2, Tarentum, sat quietly through the hearings. He didn't testify.

Mrs. Henry Kushkowski and her son, Raymond, 21, a cabinet maker who was engaged to marry Miss Kaltenmorgen, were also at the hearing. Miss Kaltenmorgen had been living with the Kushkowski family since last April.

Mrs. Kushkowski broke into tears when a police photographer described the scene where the skeleton was found and later when Wecht testified.

Detective Capt. Joseph J. Start said he had talked to Langhust and two other people on Oct. 19, about a week after the remains of Miss Kaltenmorgen were found. He said Langhust told him he had found a purse with two silver dollars and a pistol in it in the area where the skeletal remains were found.

Start said on the basis of that, what Langhust had volunteered and other evidence, Langhust was arrested on Oct. 21.

Charles McInerney, head of the county's criminal laboratory, said Langhust told him that he accidentally struck the woman with his auto while driving on Pennsylvania 55.

McInerney said Langhust told him he stopped the car, and took her to his home.

Langhust, according to McInerney, said he tried to revive her by giving her two pills he thought were pain relievers. Langhust, told McInerney that he didn't hear a heart beat, he placed the woman in the trunk of his car and took her to the wooded area.

There, McInerney quoted Langhust as saying, he placed the body on top of two tires, sprinkled them with gasoline and set it on fire.

McInerney also said that Langhust told him he took $300 cash from the purse. McInerney related that Langhust said he spent some of the money to fix the radiator of his car, which had been damaged in the accident, and started a savings account in a bank with $100.

Miss Kaltenmorgen had come to this country to marry Kushkowski, the former military policeman she had met in Italy. She was reported missing Aug. 19 by the Kushkowski family. She was a native of Ilseburg, Germany.

Near Miss Airport Accidents At Franklin Are Questioned

The president of an Oil City Union has raised the question of several near miss accidents at Franklin's Chess Lambert Airport involving Allegheny Airlines planes and private aircraft.

C. D. McLouth, president of Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, in a letter to Venango County commissioners, brought up the issue of possible tragedy at the Venango County airport at Franklin.

McLouth said that on three occasions in the past six months he has been on board when collisions have been narrowly averted.

The Chess Lambert Airport is an uncontrolled airport, and because the FAA determines on whether airports are to be controlled is based on the number of daily landings, Chess Lambert could not qualify.

McLouth, however, said he feels the commissioners should establish certain regulations which would apply to private pilots as to landing and taking off within a certain time of arrival and departure of Allegheny ships.

Rotarians Hear Report On Forum

At their Monday noon meeting, Warren Rotary Club officers and committee chairmen reported to members on the recent Rotary leadership forum held at Franklin.

Dr. Ward Sharp gave an account of the annual Rotary Awards night October 26, 1968 at North Warren Community center.

A visiting Rotarian from Los Angeles, Richard A. Heasley, and his son Rickie, were introduced.

Warren Area High School senior guests were John Lasher, introduced by his father, Rotarian Dr. John Lasher, and Jeff Fino.

Ray Benson, manager of Sylva Plastics Plant, was introduced as a new member.

Vice president Jack Roop announced that next week William W. Wolfersberger, would present a program.

Those discussing various phases of Rotary Club service and activity included: Henry Wuesthoff, discussing International Rotary Foundation; Henry McConnell, programs for youth; Dr. Jack Roop, reasons people join Rotary; President Everett Borg, Vocational service, the application of Rotary principles to business and professional life.

President Borg called upon a group of past presidents, who testified as to their motivation and rewards for accepting the office. They included John Kofod, William Walker, Frank Christy and Julius Thorne. Frank Christy is past president of the Sheffield Rotary Club. Besides being president of the Warren Rotary Club, Julius Thorne served as president of the Stark, Fla., and Fort Leavenworth Rotary Clubs.

PUC Orders Underpass, Overpass Check

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Public Utility Commission said Monday it has ordered an extensive investigation into the safety of railroad overpasses and underpasses in Pennsylvania.

The PUC said it was disturbed about the increasing need for emergency directives to close spans or reduce load limits because of structural inadequacies.

The commission called for a statewide survey and elicited the cooperation of the Department of Highways, the operating railroads and the cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

The parties were directed to undertake a "program of inspection and re-evaluation" of bridge load-capacity ratings and submit monthly reports, starting next Jan. 1.

The PUC asked to be advised immediately of any bridge conditions found to "pose an imminent hazard or threat to the traveling public..."
